SUMMER ARRANGEMENTS, 1881.

THE MANAGEMENT TAKE PLEASURE IN ANNOUNCING THAT, FOR THE PRESENT SEASON, ORDERS AND EXPRESS MATTER WILL BE FORWARDED FROM NEWPORT TO BOSTON FOUR TIMES DAILY, AS FOLLOWS:

7.20, 10.20 A. M., 3.00 and 4.20 P. M.

Express Matter will be received from Boston three times daily, arriving in Newport as follows:

10.40 A. M., 2.00 & 6.10 P. M.

PROMPT DELIVERY WILL BE MADE UPON ARRIVAL OF TRAINS.
SPECIAL ORDERS REQUIRING RETURN OF GOODS ON TRAIN ARRIVING AT 2 O'CLOCK, P. M., SHOULD BE SENT TO OUR OFFICE DURING THE AFTERNOON AND EVENING; THOSE RECEIVED BEFORE 4.20 P. M., WILL BE FORWARDED TO BOSTON ON THAT TRAIN, AND THEREAFTER, VIA THE NORTHERN TRAIN AT 5.20 A. M. A DELIVERY OF THESE ORDERS BY SPECIAL MESSENGER IN BOSTON AFFORDS AN OPPORTUNITY OF EARLY PACKING, AND INSURES THE RETURN OF THE GOODS ON EARLY TRAINS.

TO SUMMER RESIDENTS!

Special attention given to all Household Luggage, Hampers and Laundry Trunks. Regular calls made at specified times in either Newport, Boston or New York.

The advantage of securing prompt and careful handling of luggage, with sufficient help to properly room all trunks without damage to halls and stairways, is best attained through this company, inasmuch as it controls each end of the route, and is determined to make a record of doing thoroughly the work entrusted to it.

Upon the return of summer residents all luggage will be sent direct from the pier in New York to residence, thus guarding against annoying delays.

The branch office of the company, at 940 Broadway, New York, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third Streets, will be found conveniently located.

The agents of the company will call and make estimates upon lots of family luggage whenever requested so to do.

THE ONLY OFFICE IN NEWPORT FOR THE SALE OF TICKETS AND STATEROOMS OF FALL RIVER AND NEWPORT LINES.
OPEN ON SUNDAYS FROM 6 TO 7 O'CLOCK, P. M.

NEWPORT DAILY NEWS AND THE NEWPORT JOURNAL.

The Newport Daily News is published every afternoon (Sundays excepted), at the News building, 137 Thames street, by Davis & Pitman.

The Newport Journal is published at the same office every Saturday morning and contains a selection of the best matter in the Daily, including editorial discussions of the topics of the week, literary miscellanies and at least one good story, and a complete and comprehensive summary of news,—local and general. The Journal is a large 36 column paper and contains a large amount of reading matter that is valuable to readers in town or country who desire a good Newport paper, but who do not take a daily from the city.

Complaints regarding the irregular or improper delivery of either paper should be sent to the office at once.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

The Daily News, $6 per annum, or 12 cents a week, payable to carrier.

The Newport Journal will be sent to any address in the United States, postage paid, for $2 a year. A discount of 50 cents is made when the whole year is paid strictly in advance. These terms are invariable.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Ordinary advertisements, $1 a square, for the first insertion, and 25 cents for each continuance. Ten lines, or less, in this type, make a square. Advertisements in reading matter are charged for at 50 per cent. extra and are subject to editorial revision. A discount on these rates is allowed on all advertisements ordered in the Daily for one week or longer. Funeral notices 50 cents each. Yearly advertisers are limited to their immediate business and are allowed twenty-five changes a year. The circulations of the News and Journal being necessarily distinct, an advertisement inserted in both papers will reach entirely different sets of readers. As further inducement for advertisers to use both News and Journal, a liberal discount on the combined rates is made.

PRINTING.

Connected with the News is a large and well appointed job printing office. All orders for work in this department will be promptly filled, and at reasonable prices. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

SUNDAY ANNOUNCEMENTS.

ZION CHURCH.—There will be divine service in Zion Church at 10.45 A. M., and 5 P. M.

ALL SAINT'S CHAPEL.—The Rev. Dr. Treadwell Walden will officiate at All Saint's Chapel.

EMMANUEL CHURCH.—Rev. Charles P. Parker, of Cambridge, Mass., will officiate in Emmanuel Church.

SHILOH BAPTIST CHURCH.—Mr. C. S. Dinkins, a graduate of Newton Theological Seminary, will preach at Shiloh Baptist Church at 8.15 P. M.

UNITARIAN CHURCH.—At the Unitarian Church the subject of the morning sermon will be, "What it is to be Ashamed of Jesus." In the evening there will be a special service, at which, by request, the pastor will repeat the sermon of last Sunday morning on "The Revised New Testament." The evening service commences at 8 o'clock and the seats will be free to all.

Newport Daily News.

SATURDAY, JUNE 25, 1881.

So far from being alarmed at the appearance of the new comet, the News is delighted to welcome it as another of the attractions of Newport.

In consequence of the pressure of advertisements, the latest telegraphic news and other news miscellany will be found upon the fourth page of the News today, instead of on the first page as usual

A few individuals who claim to be the only genuine "Patriotic Sons of America" have been in session at Portland. We had supposed that the patriotic sons of America all lived in Ohio, and never left that state except to take office in Washington.

Senator Conkling's appearance as an anti-monopoly leader is creating some merriment. The well-known complet concerning a certain person's forming the intention, during his illness, to assume the monastic garb, and his failure to adopt the ascetic life upon his recovery, need hardly be cited in this connection.

Vennor writes to the Cincinnati Commercial:—"I regret to have to warn you of a hot and stormy July, with frequent disastrous storms of wind, hail and rain throughout those sections in which the June storms have been so severely felt." It is plain that the inhabitants of the Western cities should lose no time in getting to Newport.

The German press are congratulating their country on the fact that if France and Germany go to war, the latter country will have a sure ally beyond the Alps. The Germans should not count their chickens before the process of incubation is completed. France and Italy have fought before on the same side, and may do so again, in spite of the Marseilles ebullition.

Hans Markart's new picture, now on exhibition in Vienna, may possibly cause as much commotion there as the same artist's "Charles V." caused in New York. Its title is "Summer," the subject being "a party of women bathing—some in the water, some dressing—among whom are the best known beauties of the Austrian capital." It is not known whether Vienna has an Anthony Comstock, but the "best known beauties of the Austrian capital" doubtless have parents or guardians.

The New York Evening Post is actively urging the candidacy of William A. Wheeler, for the Senate, upon the Republicans of the New York Legislature. What might have been a brilliant political career was apparently cut short by Mr. Wheeler's burial in the vice-presidential office. Inasmuch as that office is nothing, the people have grown into the habit of regarding its holders as nobodies. But it may be remembered that Mr. Wheeler had become quite conspicuous in the national affairs before his nomination for the vice-presidency, and his submergence in that place should not be counted against him.

The report comes from Long Branch that President Garfield, disgusted at the prolongation of the deadlock at Albany, insists that the Republicans there shall elect some two men to the Senate, whether they be stalwarts or half breeds, Conkling men or Garfield men. The conditions which the President makes, however, are likely to make his promised intercession of no avail. He desires that neither of the Senators elected shall be Conkling or Platt, and that both shall be Republicans who shall consent to live on friendly terms with the administration. The stalwarts, in their present temper, are not likely to make so much of a concession.

Brady has made a good deal of capital out of his letter to the Washington Criminal Court demanding a trial. The government is certainly extremely slow in preparing its case, and if the report is true that its officers really have no evidence that will hold to substantiate the charges that have been made, the Star route swindlers will consider that they have what is as good as a vindication in advance. The difficulty of proving corruption in office is well known, and even an acquittal of Brady and his companions in court would not convince the public that the transactions of the Star route ring were legitimate.

There is a prospect that we shall have a comet worth looking at this year. The celestial apparition in the constellation Capella has apparently grown quite rapidly since its first observation, and should be now easily visible to the naked eye. The Washington astronomers describe it as having a nucleus about half as large as the apparent disk of the moon and possessing a beautiful fan-shaped tail. It should be seen just after sunset, about twenty degrees below the pole star on the horizon. Its motion is about eight degrees, preceding that of Capella, and is from northwest to northeast. The astronomers will require some days to determine whether it is the comet of 1812 or an entirely new visitor. If it is the 1812 comet it will be quite brilliant, but not astonishingly so, and its future behavior may be accurately predicted. If this is the present comet's first appearance, or the second appearance of some comet of antiquity whose performances have not been accurately recorded, there is no telling what phase it may assume. Comets have anciently been seen whose tails spread from the zenith to the horizon. The present comet bids fair to be at least as brilliant as the one which shone in the northwest in 1874, though it may not rival the splendor of Donati's comet in 1858. The astrologers and others who have been predicting all sorts of evils for the year 1881 will no doubt derive a great deal of comfort from the appearance of this comet, and their hilarity will be increased if the comet reported by Gould in South America turns out to be not the one now visible in the northern sky, but another still. They will no doubt assure us that the planets, having now arranged themselves neat y in a row, are all to be bowled out at once by the great fiery ball which is approaching.

THE NEW VERSION.

It is not at all singular that the revised translation of the New Testament should attract the attention of all classes of intelligent people. The discussion that is going on both in England and in America shows that the old book still holds its place in human affections, and is still regarded as possessed of authority in matters of faith and practice. It is quite too early to judge as to the verdict of the general public as to whether the new version is better or worse than the old, though thus far the drift of opinion is evidently in its favor. But while this discussion is going on and public opinion is crystallizing, there are some points concerning which we may speak with entire confidence

No one who reads the history of the work of revision can doubt the honesty of purpose of those engaged in the enterprise. They have sought to give us in English, the exact counterpart of the original Greek; and have doubtless succeeded as well as it is possible to do in the present state of learning and with the materials at command.

No harm has come or can come to the book itself or the cause it represents by such a revision, whether it is ever adopted officially by the churches or not. There have been hundreds of translations and versions before this one and they have all helped rather than hindered a knowledge of the word of God. Whatever theory of inspiration may be entertained it is well to remember that the language of a translation cannot come under its influence. The old version with which we have become familiar has no superior claims on this point than any other. In such a case thoughts may be accepted as inspired but not the language, for no two scholars could possibly put the thoughts of a single gospel or epistle into the same words, were they to make the translation independently of each other.

No doctrinal changes will be brought about or be even promoted by this new revision. Every student will see that there is no conflict between the two versions. Nearly all the changes made have long since been indicated as proper to be made, by Biblical critics and commentators of the several schools of theology. Those who fear that the authority for cherished doctrines will be undermined by the new translation may well dismiss their fears at once. And those who hope to gain fresh support from the verbal changes in the text will surely find themselves mistaken. The revision was not made because an improvement in doctrine was called for, but for greater clearness in modes of expression and general forms of speech. Those who seek sectarian capital in the revision will surely be disappointed; while on the other hand such as tremble lest the truth shall be obscured and error fastened may rest at ease. The changes relate to form rather than to substance, and cannot be pressed into partisan support, however anxious may be the efforts in that direction.

It is not at all probable that the new version will be established by authority, as was that in the days of King James. It will be received and used largely on the judgment of individuals. Such matters are not now settled by the edict of a secular ruler, or even by church magnates, as they were once. There is no man or set of men living, who can exercise "authority" over such a subject. It is simply a question of choice between two versions that differ slightly in forms of speech but not at all in the doctrines put forth. Whether or not these changes in the outward dress be approved the fact remains that Christianity loses nothing, and skepticism gains nothing by these verbal amendments which serve simply to give us a clearer view of the original record.

For the festivities on the 4th of July the city committee has at a great expense procured the services of the American rider, Mr. Charles LeRoy, with his stud of twelve horses of tried endurance and speed. Mr. LeRoy will, at the polo grounds, ride twenty miles in the remarkably short time of sixty minutes. He will use in this ride twelve horses and change horses every half mile. This will be one of the most exciting rides ever witnessed in Newport. There will be no stopping from the time of the start until the end of the race. Mr. LeRoy is spoken of as the handsomest rider in the world, and is the same man who rode the 1100 mile race in six days against Leon, the Mexican rider. Mr. LeRoy will appear with his horses in the street procession. This, with the many other attractions which General Burdick and Capt. Waters have procured, will make a fine display.

—Mr. W. R. Balch, of the Philadelphia American, is at Block Island.

—The yachts Republic, Indolent and Vision arrived here yesterday.

—Mr. Vars has secured $800 toward the Fourth of July celebration.

—A hop was given on board of the Minnesota today by the officers of that ship.

—Mr. H. M. Schieffelin of New York, has arrived at one of the Livingston cottages.

—Two ornamental gas light posts are being put in position at the entrance of the Newport Reading room.

—The steam yacht Stranger is at New Bedford. The Dreadnaught was at the same place yesterday afternoon.

—Several deserters from the ships have recently been captured by the police who have returned them to their former quarters.

—The family of the late Col. T. A. Scott have decided not to visit Newport. One of the Herman T. Livingston cottages which had been rented, will, therefore, be sub-let.

—The comet was plainly seen in Newport last night in the northern sky. At the rate of increase in size which has been apparent since its discovery it will be a magnificent object in one or two days.

—The fountain on the parade has been removed to make way for the new one. The figure that has so long kept watch over that portion of the city has been taken to the building on the City wharf to keep company with the parrot gun.

—John Chambers, who has been a messenger boy at the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, has been appointed telegraph operator and manager of the office at the Ocean House. The best operators in the country were originally messenger boys.

—The Sunday trips of steamer Jamestown have been changed so that the boat will, on and after tomorrow, and until further notice, leave Newport at 10.15 A. M. and at 1.00, 7.00 and 9.10 P. M., and will leave Jamestown at 9.30 A. M. and at 12.30, 6.15 and 9.15 P. M.

—First Lieut. Van Ness, stationed at Fort Adams for several years, will take up his quarters at Fort Trumbull, New London, on Tuesday next. Lieut. Van Ness and family have made many friends while here and their best wishes will go with them to their new station.

—Mr. H. Augustus Kaull is building for Mr. R. N. Hazard at one-mile corner, a fine stable, Queen Anne style, from plans by George C. Mason & Son, to cost about $2,000. Mr. Hazard is also laying out considerable money upon the house recently purchased of Mr. Thomas R. Hunter.

—The New York Herald truthfully says:—For making the most of the summer season the frequenters of Newport have no equals. Already, before the majority of New Yorkers are ready to leave town, most of the Newport cottages are occupied, while there is no other Northern wateringplace where the cottagers linger so late in autumn.

—The club rooms of the Newport Casino were opened to the inspection of the public today from 11 to 2. A very large number of residents and visitors availed themselves of the opportunity to visit these elegant rooms, which constitute so notable an adornment of our city. Among the visitors were the Duke of Sutherland with his party. The club rooms will again be open to the free inspection of the public on July 16th.

—The attache of the Ocean House this season will be L. B. Roberts, head clerk, the same as last year; J. Henry Tilley, bookkeeper; Charles Lawton, key clerk; Mr. Lanckpaep, who has held the position fifteen years, steward; Andrew J. Shipman, charge of wines, his seventeenth season in that department, and Frances Sarniquet, chef, same as last year. Allen's orchestra will furnish the music and John Graham will be at the door as usual.

—Bay State Commandery, K. T., of Brockton, Mass., C. C. Bixby, Eminent Commander, was right royally entertained at the United States Hotel last evening by the landlord, Mr. W. B. Hathaway, who is a member of the commandery. The Knights were taken to drive and shown every courtesy by the members of Washington Commandery of this city. They visited the Skating rink by invitation of Mr. Landers. The visitors, who left for home on a special train at 11 o'clock, were accompanied by Marlland's band.

—A petition is circulating and has the names of some of the best citizens of Newport asking the City Council to take into consideration the advisability of purchasing, at an expense not exceeding $2,000, the triangular piece of land at the junction of Thames and Farewell streets and converting it into a city park to be named in honor of William Ellery, signer of the Declaration of Independence, who resided to the time of his death in the house fronting this land. The property seems peculiarly well fitted for the proposed purpose and the plan would seem to be a fitting one.

—Col. John Rogers's son fell overboard at about six o'clock last evening at Finch & Engs's wharf. Some boys who saw him run to his father's store on Thames street near the head of the wharf and notified him that his son was in the water. Col. Rogers's clerk, Mr. Charles Plummer, at once ran down the wharf and saved the boy. Had he been a moment later the boy would have been drowned. As it was, he was unconscious, but was speedily brought to. This should be a timely warning to parents not to allow their children to visit the wharves unattended.

SOME POSITIVE ASPECTS OF UNITARIAN THOUGHT AND DOCTRINE. A course of sermons will be given by various distinguished clergymen in the Unitarian Church commencing with the first Sunday in July and continuing to the dedication of the Channing Memorial Church in September. The pastor will introduce this course of sermons tomorrow morning with a sermon, "What it is to be ashamed of Jesus."

HOUSEHOLD ART. The Society of Decorative Art will have an agency for the sale of silks, crewels, materials and commenced work, at No. 15 Division street, corner of Mary street, during the summer, under the charge of an experienced teacher, who has arrived from New York and has brought with her the latest importations of embroidery silks and crewels. Orders for all kinds of embroidery, including curtains and portières adapted to summer houses, are solicited and will be executed promptly in the work rooms in New York, and stamping on linen, silk, cloth or plush, from the designs in the books, will be done with as little delay as possible on receipt of orders. Notice will be given in a few days of the hours for needlework classes and private lessons.

THE DUKE OF SUTHERLAND.

The Duke of Sutherland and party arrived here last night via Wickford from New York. The party were driven directly to the Ocean House where they will remain until Tuesday. Tomorrow the party, which includes Dr. W. H. Russell, of the London Times, will dine with Mr. James R. Keene at the Tiffany cottage, on Narragansett avenue.

This afternoon the ducal party will go to Grave Point to witness the fishing there. Tomorrow several members of the suite will be the guests of the West Island club.

A CELEBRATION.

Stone Mill Lodge celebrated St. John's day last evening in Odd Fellows' hall. The hall was crowded by the friends of the order by nine o'clock, and at ten the Newport orchestra, Prof. Mathers, put in an appearance, and the brethren marched from the ante-room to the hall, and treated the audience to a little Masonic marching which was well done. Afterwards, in a few appropriate remarks, Mrs Rudolph presented the lodge with a beautiful silk banner in behalf of their friends. Rev. Mr. Van Horne responded for the lodge in a happy manner, thanking the ladies for the kind efforts in their behalf and told them as many of the secrets as he thought was good for them to know. This ceremony ended, the orchestra played several pieces and the strawberries and cream began to suffer. By the time of closing, which was about one o'clock, the brethren had netted some $75 to $100. The banner, which is a most beautiful one, was secured through the efforts of Mrs. Van Horne, Mrs. E. Burton, Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Rudolph. It is mounted on a black staff and the staff is surmounted with some Masonic emblems. The banner is dark blue on one side, with the following inscription, "Stone Mill Lodge, chartered March 27, 1858." On the other side is a splendid picture of the old stone mill on Touro Park with various Masonic signs and emblems. The lodge, some sixty strong, is to be congratulated on its prosperous condition.

THE HAZARD WILL CASE.

The following is the text of the order and entry in regard to the granting of a new trial in the Hazard will case and its removal to Providence county:

NEWPORT, Sc.

SUPREME COURT, June 25, 1881.

Nancy Hazard, et als. appellants, vs. Court of Probate of Newport, Appellees. } Petitions for new trial and change of venue.

A new trial of the consolidated probate appeal No. 1274, Nancy Hazard et als. appellants vs. Court of Probate of Newport appellees is hereby granted—the new trial to be had in the Supreme Court in Providence county, at the next or some ensuing term of said court—the venue being changed for the purpose. The clerk of the Supreme Court for Newport county is directed to enter this as the order of the court and make his docket entries accordingly.

CHARLES MATTESON, A. S. C.
JOHN H. STINESS, A. S. C.

Newport, June 25, 1881.

Entered as an order of the Supreme Court this 25th day of June, A. D. 1881.

(Signed) THOS. W. WOOD, Clerk.

A. W. Luther, Daily News Block, offers inducements to persons in want of unexcelled fire works and of other Fourth of July goods by giving purchasers the advantage of New York prices for goods in his line.

RUNAWAY.

Last evening a pair of horses attached to a barouche in charge of J. Smith while standing at the depot were frightened by the train and started to run up Marlborough street at a tremendous pace. They made a straight line for Mr. E. Irish's house, which they succeeded in striking. The house remained firm, however, but down went the horses and the team on top of them. They didn't remain dead as everybody who saw them thought they must be but were soon on their feet again and had it not been for a couple of courageous bystanders, they would have finished their runaway. It was a sickening sight to see the horses rush headforemost into the solid building and had it not been for the length of the pole, which struck the house first, they would have been killed.

It is said that the hull of Commodore Perry's flagship, the Lawrence, is still sailing the lakes under the name of the Harriet Ross, a schooner of 179 tons burden. Her upper works have been rebuilt several times, but her hull is as sound as when she went into battle of Lake Erie, September 10, 1813.

TRIAL OF BRITISH VEDETTE BOATS.

A very interesting and satisfactory trial has been had with the two vedette boats built by the Herreshoff Manufacturing Company, for the British Government through Capt. Arthur, naval attaché of the British Legation at Washington. These boats can be used day or night for picket or guard duty in and about harbors. They carry a Gatling gun and have a speed almost equal to the fastest torpedo boats. They are 48 feet long, 9 feet wide and 5 feet deep, and have diagonal planking, oak frame, and are fastened entirely with brass screws. Mahogany, oak and cherry have been used for the decks and interior finish. The boats are fitted throughout with the Herreshoff system of coil boilers and compound condensing engine of 125 horse-power. They weigh but seven tons and can easily be hoisted on a ship's davits.

The trial was witnessed by Capt. Arthur, R. N. C. B., and Capt. T. O. Selfridge, in command of the Torpedo Station at this place, who was sent by special order from the Bureau of Ordnance at Washington. The course was exactly three knots long, and was laid out by the United States Coast Survey. Two runs were made over it, the first in 11 minutes and 46½ seconds; and the second in 11 minutes, 3.3¼ seconds, making a mean of 15.38 knots per hour or 17.68 miles per hour. The speed specified in the contract was 14 knots, which the boats exceeded by 1.38 knots. In this connection it should be stated that the fastest speed ever attained by English vedette boats was by the one built by White at Cowes, this craft having made 13.39 miles per hour. The steam pressure during the trial was 140 pounds, while the revolutions of the engines were 550 per minute.

These boats have been built under the constant and personal supervision of Capt. Arthur, who, it will be remembered, has for years been at the head of the torpedo school in England and who is, without doubt, the first authority in torpedo warfare in the world. The arrangements and many of the new features about these boats reflect his own ideas and suggestions. He expressed himself more than pleased with the trial as he was able to get at least one more knot than he had hoped for. The result was cabled to the Whitehall.

The boats will be shipped on board the steamer, they being in sections, on Monday next, and taken to London. Mr. John B. Herreshoff, the president of the Herreshoff Manufacturing Company, with two first-class engineers, accompany the boats. After their arrival in London they will steam around to Portsmouth where a second series of trials will be had under the direction of the chief engineer of Her Majesty's dockyard.

AN ENTERPRISING EXPRESS COMPANY.

The New York and Boston Express Company has the distinction of being the pioneers in Newport of a full page advertisement. We presume that they desire to reach all classes of residents in a direct manner, and we know of no way so good as through the medium of the Daily News.

The enterprise of this company, as shown by the arrangements they have made for forwarding orders to Boston upon early and special trains, and the general plan of receiving and returning goods promptly, cannot fail of giving great satisfaction to the public and really serves to bring Newport and Boston nearer together in a commercial sense.

Not only to Boston, and all local points on the Old Colony Railroad do this company run, but also to New York they are the direct and only express, running messengers via the Fall River Line.

Our summer residents will find in the advertisement matters connected with the handling of their luggage which, at least, indicates that the management appreciate the manner in which deliveries should be made, and have determined to define for the guidance of their employes as well as for the information of the public, that deliveries of trunks, &c., in the hallway, or just within the front door, does not constitute a delivery in point of convenience or fairness

The facilities which the company possess in the principal cities in which Newport families are most interested, coupled with the favorable locations of the uptown New York branch office, at 940 Broadway, and the office in this city, are confirmatory evidences that they know how to attract business, and the uniformly fair manner with which they transact it (illustrated in no more striking manner than the settlement of their losses a year ago this month on the steamer Narragansett, which they paid in full in twenty nine days from the date of invoices) is guarantee enough that they will retain their patronage and continue to be the popular express route.

THE NEW COMET.

Professor Draper, of the New York University, gives his opinion of the new comet as follows: "A few days ago I as well as a number of other astronomers received a circular letter from Lord Lindsay, Earl of Crawford, from his observatory at Dun Echt, Scotland, calling our attention to the cablegram which he had received from Dr. Gould. He states that the message must in some way have suffered a change in transmission, but as far as he could determine it was meant to inform him that Dr. Gould had discovered the reappearance of the comet of 1807. So it is, of course, uncertain whether this will prove to be it or a newcomer. Be that as it may, I am sure that a large comet will be welcomed most eagerly by all astronomers, as it will help to establish beyond all doubt a physical problem which we have for a long time in vain attempted to solve. That is, whether carbon enters largely into the composition of comets and similar bodies. For, as you know, the earth is to a great extent made of carbon, and if we can establish that the same material constitutes the comets, we will naturally conclude that comets are fragments of worlds like our own. Since scientists have begun to consider this question, no comet of sufficiently large magnitude has been seen to enable them to make observations in this direction. The scientific value of this discovery is, of course, apparent. As to this being the returned comet, I, of course, cannot determine. The calculations which astronomers make on the time at which a certain comet will return are subject to so many errors of accident that, although the comet of 1807 may have been predicted for many years hence, it may still be the comet at present visible."

The great comet of 1807 excited much interest among scientists and not a little alarm among the superstitious. There is no satisfactory record as to its discovery, but both Bissell and Herschel observed its orbit and made various calculations. The diameter of its nucleus, as measured by Herschel, was found to be 538 miles. It was taken to be periodic, and Bissell, the eminent German astronomer, calculated its return in 1,548 years.

SUMMER RESORTS AND "SUMMER PRICES."

The New York Evening Telegram says: "While in the city, board and furnished rooms are being advertised at reduced rates or "summer prices," those pious men who run wateringplace houses hotels are preparing to "take the stranger in" on a grander scale than ever before. All over the country, amid Maine lakes, New Hampshire mountains, by the sea at Newport, on Long Island, Block Island, the Isles of Shoals and Mount Desert "summer prices" have been vigorously marked up. Everything is booming, the country is prosperous, and summer hotel keepers are determined to have a generous share of the going prosperity. During the very hot days in May, hotel keepers among the mountains and by the sea received more applications for room than they could accommodate the dismal June weather was rather a damper for them, as many families intending to leave town, bag and baggage on the 1st of June have been detained in the city till now by stress of weather. New Yorkers are annually falling more and more into the habit of going earlier into the country and prolonging their stay by the sea or among the mountains late into the autumnal months. At Newport, there are more cottages occupied than ever before at this season of the year. At New London, as we understand, all the rooms and cottages are already taken for the season, at rates higher than last year. The almost invariable answer to applications for rooms at Mount Desert is, "everything taken."

"Probably more money will be spent at fashionable wateringplaces during the present season than ever before. A man who nowadays wishes to make a figure at Newport must have a yacht, a palatial cottage, five or six horses and as many vehicles, not forgetting the inevitable "coach." Moreover, he must have a great culinary artist as chef, and must "give dinners." It is not probable that we shall ever adopt habits of economy until our vast abundance and resources have permanently ceased—until we are obliged to live meagrely and closely, as do the bulk of the inhabitants of the old world. That period is too remote to give the slightest uneasiness to the present generation of summer hotel-keepers. We may expect wateringplace extravagance, and for that matter, national extravagance, to grow steadily with each new generation, until what we count wild extravagance today may be reckoned in 1981 as rigid frugality."

SPORTING NOTES

The Providence club was badly blanked yesterday at Chicago by the Home Nine, the score standing Chicago, 8; Providence, 0. Other games yesterday were:—At Cleveland—Bostons, 1; Clevelands, 2; at Buffalo—Buffalos, 4; Worcesters, 2; at Detroit—Troys, 9; Detroits, 8.

The date for the inter-collegiate boat race for the Childs cup between the University, Princeton and Columbia colleges has been definitely settled to take place July 5. This postponement was made to suit the Columbia crew, which is under an engagement to row Harvard on July 1.

The objection will be made by the other crews in the Henley race in England that the Cornell men are not strictly "amateurs" in the English sense of the word. The London Times says: "We understand that the clubs engaged will summon the stewards to insist upon the production of the necessary certificates of qualification of the Cornell men as amateurs, and that such certificates be duly lodged with the stewards."

The closing day of the June meeting at Narragansett Park, yesterday, was very brilliant. The unfinished 2:22 race and the 2:45 class were comparatively tame sport, the former being decided in a single heat and Flirt winning the latter in three straight heats with no notable opposition. The third race, the effort of Billy D. and running mate to beat the record of 2:14¾, was looked to with interest, but the best time made in three heats was 2:16¼.

The London Sportsman of Thursday says:—The Cornell crew have much improved during the past fortnight. They work their bodies better than previously. They rowed over the course yesterday morning forty strokes to the minute the whole way. Captain R. J. Cook, of Yale College, who rowed with the Yale crew against the London rowing club at Philadelphia in 1876, is assisting the Cornell crew in their training. The men are in good health and spirits.

The Columbia crew arrived at their quarters at Montville, on the Thames, Thursday morning. The New London Telegram says that the shell which will carry the blue and white colors on the day of the race, is a new paper boat, and a perfect model of what a racing shell should be. The crew are in fine condition, and while they are not so heavy as the Harvards, are tough, sinewy-looking men, with lots of grit and staying powers. They are not over-confident of success, but are sure of giving the Cambridge eight a close pull. The time of the race is not yet definitely determined, but it will probably occur at half-past ten or eleven o'clock A. M. on Monday, the 27th.

The Turf club of New York has decided to increase the resident membership from 1000 to 1500, and the initiation fee from $30 to $100. The following are the names of the newly elected governors: W. R. Travers, F. W. Vanderhoff, H. Victor Newcomb, F. G. Field, J. G. K. Lawrence, A. W. Sanford, L. Kid, Captain J. H. Coster, Herman Oelrichs, G. P. Wetmore, S. Howland Robbins, Isaac Bell, Jr., J. A. Bayard, Jr., H. C. Peil, Carroll Livingston, C. W. Griswold, Clifford E. Smith, C. W. Kohlsaat, L. C. Bruce, J. F. Satterthwaite, W. H. Drew, John Grimball, E. K. Willard, J. Warren Lawton, E. D. Barnes, R. Ramsdel Moore, Perry Belmont, Philip Van Rensselaer

A LIVE DUKE. The Duke of Sutherland has returned from his trip to California, and has expressed, in warm terms, the wonder and delight which he experienced in observing the opportunities offered by the overland routes, already in use or projected, for controlling a goodly portion of the carrying trade between India and Great Britain. The duke's remarks on the management of the railroads should be duly heeded, if the question of competition with the route from Asia to Europe through the Suez Canal ever comes up. The duke said, "The present roads might be very much improved by increasing the speed. It is all well enough when the trains are going, but the long waits at the stations are annoying. Think of four hours' standing on the siding! I think we lost a full day on the Southern Pacific by this dilly-dallying process. The roads, too, are not built specially strong, though that, I think, is a matter in which they will improve as the travel becomes heavier. Already they are taking out wooden bridges and putting in iron girders." The reports which the Duke will carry home of the agricultural and mineral resources, and of the facilities for speedy transportation presented to his observation during his trip, will be of great weight and influence among English capitalists. [Boston Transcript.

BAD SEASON AT CONEY ISLAND.

The season at Coney Island thus far has been very unprofitable. As many persons have gone down perhaps as in any ordinary season, but there are so many houses of entertainment and so many points of interest to visit that the crowd spreads itself out very thin, and no place receives any benefit. The fact appears to be, Coney Island at the present time is best on the plan that the season will begin early and end late, and that each day will bring an immense crowd, every one in which will have his pockets filled with dollars that he is only too anxious to get rid of. When a dull season comes along, or when it is backward, like the present one, some one is certain to be a loser. [New York Commercial Advertiser.

Piles! Piles!! Piles!!! No One Need Suffer. A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams (an Indian remedy), called Dr. Williams's Indian Pile Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 years' standing. No one will suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. WILLIAMS'S INDIAN PILE OINTMENT absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching (particularly at night after getting warm in bed), acts as a poultice; gives instant relief, and is prepared ONLY FOR PILES, itching of the private parts and nothing else.
Read what Hon. Judge Coffinbury, of Cleveland, says: "I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams's Indian Pile Ointment."

THE CABINET AT LONG BRANCH.

Speechmaking and Efforts Toward Settling the Albany Deadlock.

LONG BRANCH, June 25.—Secretary Windom left for Washington last night. The other members of the Cabinet will probably leave for the national capital on Monday, accompanied by the President. Mrs. Garfield's health is steadily improving and she expresses herself as highly delighted with the place and its surroundings.

In his speech at the dinner of the Seventh Regiment Secretary Windom said:—I am a good deal more of a civil service reformer than I was when I entered the Treasury three and a half months ago. (Cheers). When I can say truthfully that within the last one hundred days people who find their way to Washington have taken up seven-eighths of the time of the President and his Cabinet, it is time to turn our attention to civil service reform. I believe the time of the Cabinet and of the Executive of the United States belongs alone to the fifty millions whom they represent rather than to the few who find their way to Washington for offices. (Cheers.) The orator then went on to speak of the finances of the country, and said that the vast increase of the country had enabled the people to buy up their bonds, and that the millions of interest would be paid to their own people. He finished by paying a high tribute to the soldiers of the nation.

Secretary Hunt finished his remarks by speaking in magnificent terms of the Republic, of the valor of its citizen soldiers, and made use of the phrase, "I speak, also, of its misdirected valor." Referring to the might of the Republic, he said:—

" No pent up Utica contracts our powers,
The whole boundless continent is ours."

(Immense cheering.)

There is a report that the President at the conferences which have been held at Long Branch with members of his Cabinet has been taking into serious consideration the Senatorial situation in New York, and that it is the wish of the President that the Legislature shall elect two Senators before the adjournment, whether they are called stalwarts or half-breeds, provided they are not the two Senators who resigned their commissions, and surrendered the United States Senate to the Democrats. There may be something in this report. It is vouched for by persons who hold close relations with the President and who ought to know what they are talking about. A gentleman who talked with the President a short time before he left for the seaside says that President Garfield cherishes no resentment for any of those who have seen fit to co-operate with Mr. Conkling, and that he greatly desires that the Legislature, at its present session, shall end the factional contest by the election of two Republican Senators. The same gentleman says that the President does not anticipate that, should the Legislature elect two so-called stalwart Senators, they would be persons with whom the administration might not hold friendly relations. With the precedent of Conkling and Platt before him, the administration does not think that the coming New York Senators will be likely to attempt to place themselves in open opposition to the President and to all their colleagues in the Senate.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

More Useless Ballots at Albany.

ALBANY, June 24.—The Senate entered the Assembly Chamber at three minutes past twelve o'clock, Lieutenant-Governor Hoskins in the chair. The joint ballot for successor to Conkling resulted as follows:—

Conkling	30
Wheeler	45
Potter	44
Lapham	13
Roach	1
Cornell	1
Hoskins	2
Folger	1
Total	137

The following is the result of the joint ballot for Platt's successor:—

Depew	45
Kernan	45
Platt	27
Hoskins	4
Crowley	5
Cornell	7
Tremain	1
Lapham	3
Total	137

Mr. Brooks favored an adjournment. He thought that enough indecisive ballots had been taken to convince the people that it was perfectly impossible to solve the election at this session. There was a perfect deadlock, and the only key to open it was the adjournment, which would give the people a chance to settle the difficulty in their own way and the people should have an opportunity to settle. He hoped the joint convention would take some means of securing an adjournment, and put a stop to the present foolish, expensive and worthless balloting, which proved nothing, indicated nothing and would settle nothing.

General Husted opposed an adjournment and favored continuous balloting.

A resolution to adjourn until tomorrow was carried.

Senators Conkling and Platt have both left for New York.

The Star Route Frauds.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Two points were brought out very clearly in the unexpected effort of the attorneys of General Brady yesterday to induce the judge of the Criminal Court here to instruct the Grand Jury to proceed immediately to the consideration of the Star route cases. These facts were:—

First—That the government has not yet perfected the preparation of a single case against any Star route contractor, and that it will not be practicable to have the cases ready before September.

Second—That the President has explicitly instructed the prosecuting officers in these cases that they shall not cause persons to be indicted upon rumors that cannot be substantiated; that every case must be thoroughly examined for itself, but that, if the evidence and the records furnish a sufficient legal case against any person, high or low, that the prosecuting officers shall present such person for indictment, and press the Government's case to the bitter end.

An Important Will Broken.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Surrogate Calvin today rendered a decision, refusing to admit to probate the will of Caroline A. Merrill, who died leaving an estate valued at $500,000. The will is dated May 2, 1871, and is witnessed by Cyrus W. Field and Benjamin Cartwright. After bequeathing small sums to relations, she gave $50,000 to the New York Hospital, $50,000 to Cardinal McCloskey or his successor, and the residue of her estate to Bishop Bacon, of Maine. Moses Taylor and R. G. Ralston were appointed executors. Bishop Bacon having died, she executed a codicil in Rome, December 9th, 1875, whereby she bequeaths the residue of her estate to Cardinal McCloskey for charitable purposes. The will was contested by George Merrill, a nephew and alleged adopted son, and by other next of kin nearer than he, putting in issue mental capacity and freedom of restraint of decedent. Testimony was taken by a commission in Europe and in the West, and after thirty-eight sessions were held, the case was submitted in the summer of 1880. The Surrogate finds that the will and codicil were executed by the decedent while laboring under an insane delusion as to the character and conduct of her nephew, George Merrill. Had it been admitted, Cardinal McCloskey would have received over $200,000.

Gen. Grant's $250,000.

NEW YORK, June 24.—George W. Childs of Philadelphia has paid a flying visit to this city en route to Long Branch where he owns a cottage. It is understood that his present trip is for the purpose of conferring with Gen. Grant in reference to a presentation of the $250,000 which was received by subscription to be devoted to the support of the oldest ex-President of the United States. The money having been invested in 4 per cent. bonds, the annual income of $10,000 is to be transferred to Gen. Grant privately, it being his desire to avoid any public demonstration.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

Father Gavazzi, the Italian Protestant, preached in Boston last Sunday.

A convention of the Universalist Sunday schools of Taunton, Providence and New Bedford will be held at Forest Hill, Fall River, on July 14th.

Emerson frequently makes a concise statement which at once begins to circulate throughout the country. His latest is about religion, which he says has become "pew-holding."

Father Hyacinthe and his wife are coming to America this summer. The congregation of the Swedenborgian Church, at Philadelphia, are about to erect two buildings of early English Gothic architecture, one of which will be a church and the other designed for Sunday school purposes, with apartments on the ground floor for the American New Church Tract and Publication Society. The cost of the whole will be $125,000.

Dean Stanley is proverbially kind to the younger clergy, and frequently asks them to preach in Westminster Abbey; nor is he particular as to their notions of churchmanship. Among the recent preachers were H. E. J. Bevan, R. H. Hadden, C. W. Stubbs and S. D. Headlam. The last-named is well known as a clerical patron of theatres and music halls and a great power among the London Secularists; Mr. Stubbs is a friend of Joseph Arch, and an earnest exponent of the cause of the agricultural laborers; Mr. Hadden is an active advocate for charity reform, and a writer and lecturer upon friendly societies; and Mr. Bevan is great at Sunday school organization.

Father La Rocca, General of the Dominican Order throughout the world, arrived in New York a few days ago, on a tour to the Dominican priories at Somerset, Ohio (the oldest in the United States), Memphis, Tennessee, Newark, New Jersey, Springfield and Louisville, Kentucky, and San Francisco. The Dominican is an order of preachers, founded by St. Dominic in 1215 in Toulouse. It is quite liberal in its government, the superior of every convent having discretionary power to dispense from the common rules where the objects to be gained by preaching may be better subserved. The officers of the order, from highest to lowest, are elected for terms from three to six years. This arrangement is favorable to manly independence and freedom of action, and has greatly contributed to the preservation of the order, which has given to the world such men as Albertus Magnus, Thomas Aquinas, Savonarola, Las Casas, Vincent Ferrer, Lacordaire, and Father Tom Burke.

The Ohio Methodists have determined to make strict temperance a test quotation in their church. Relative to the conversion on his death bed of Littre, the Paris Voltaire says that for six months his old positivist friends were not allowed to approach him. Even M. Saint-Hilaire, who is deistical and a spiritualist, was kept at a distance, though not denied access to him. Madame and Mademoiselle Littré were ardent Catholics, and were determined that what happened in 1874 at Mesnil, when Littré was thought to be on his death bed, should never be again repeated. His chosen disciples, one of whom was M. Dubost, now a deputy, and M. Caubet, the actual director of the municipal police, formed a guard around him to protect him from clerical importunities. This guard was relieved at intervals agreed on by the disciples. Littré unexpectedly recovered, and when he fell ill again, Sisters of Charity were called in to attend and positivists were kept out. One of the nuns was a woman of talent, education and very sweet manners. Littre conceived for her an affectionate veneration, and felt when she left the house as if the sunshine went along with her. He was naturally disposed to venerate women. The few whom he had in his long life associated with were of pure life and elevated sentiment, and his mother, of whom he constantly spoke in his latter days, was one of the heroines in the siege of Lyons in the Revolution. It was remarked that, after the Sisters of Charity won his affectionate gratitude and esteem his articles in the Positivist Review became more and more conservative and indulgent toward the Catholic party. Another influence was also at work. It was that of the learned Abbe Huvelin, of St. Augustine's. This priest has imposed on himself the mission of drawing the young men of the schools toward religious ideas through science and classical literature.

Wyatt Holmes was hanged yesterday at Holly Springs, Mass., for the murder of Andrew Scott.

A dispatch from the Spanish Consul at Oran intimates that a hundred Spaniards were massacred by the insurgents during the recent raid on the Esparto factories at Saida, Algeria. Four hundred persons were wounded or taken prisoners.

The Smithsonian Institute has received from Prosper Henry of Paris the announcement of the discovery at Paris Observatory on the 23d of June, 1881, at 3 o'clock A. M. mean time of a large comet 5 hours 33 minutes right ascension and 41 degrees north declination.

A Montenegrin officer named Djurjevitch went to the Winter Palace in St. Petersburg on Thursday and demanded an audience with the Princess of Montenegro. Being refused he stabbed the officer on duty. The Russian officer then shot the Montenegrin dead. The incident is not considered of any political importance. It is thought that the assailant wished to present a petition to the Princess.

And further, "the wife of a devoted husband is always a good cook. Intemperance, profanity, disgust of home life, all are born of bad cooking."

WILLIAM PENN'S BONES.

It is with a feeling of relief that most people will read in the daily papers that the trustees of the cemetery in which the remains of William Penn lie buried have not sanctioned the removal of his ashes to another soil. More than half of the charm of English travel lies in the associations of our churchyards and of the burial grounds in which the troubled souls of the Non-conformists of bygone generations at last found rest. Even in the graveyards of the national church the proudest prelate of the age not unfrequently lies side by side with the most strenuous supporter of an antagonistic creed. William Penn is in company with those with whom he acted during his public life, and with whom he agreed in religious belief. No ground of equal appropriateness could be found in America for his bones to rest in. His grave is the object of frequent pilgrimages from intelligent Americans, and in its present position it has for them an interest which would be utterly destroyed were it transplanted from amid his friends and fellow-workers.

Ex-Senator H. C. Lord of Ohio has a little picture of Lincoln which has a history. "When Lincoln," says Mr. Lord, "was on his way to Washington for his inauguration in 1861, I, as president of the I. C. and L. road had a special train to carry him from Indianapolis to Cincinnati. I gave the forward car of the train to Lincoln, and took extra precaution to protect him by having the road clear and six armed guards placed on the train. Lincoln expressed a desire to be alone, and an unwillingness to see any one, or even to appear on the platform. I accordingly allowed no one to enter, and he, my wife and myself, occupied the car alone. He sat in the forward part; my wife and I sat some distance in the rear. I don't suppose I spoke to him three times on the trip, and then merely to ask him if I could be of any service to him. We did not want to disturb him. He appeared careworn, sad, and sat silently all the way, apparently in deep thought, with his elbow over the back of the seat and his face buried in his hand, occasionally changing from the right to the left hand. As we approached Cincinnati Mr. Lincoln opened a valise, so old and worn that it looked as though he had carried it in his flat boat days, and taking this picture from it, drew his pencil and wrote his name as you see, and presented it to my wife. I said, 'Mr. Lincoln, I didn't vote for you, and I'm sorry for it.'"

MASCULINE BANGS. The Chicago Times, learned in masculine bangs, divides them into three classes:—The baby bang, the Capoul and the straight. The first is innocent looking and comparatively slight. It is intended to convey the impression that the wearer would brush it back if he could, but that it is too short. The Capoul makes a scallop, which is deepest in the middle of the forehead. The straight bang comes down to the eyebrows, and seems to have been cut by rule and square.

Although compulsory pilotage at Hell Gate has been done away with by an act of the New York Legislature, the pilots are still at their tricks. In 1871 they executed a bond exempting all vessels belonging to Suffolk county, Long Island from the payment of certain pilotage fees in consideration that the owners of such vessels should not force the passage of a bill then pending in the Legislature to change the rates of pilotage. Since the passage of the recent bill relieving vessels under a coasting license from compulsory Hell Gate pilotage, the pilots have made out and sent bills to the owners and captains of Suffolk county vessels, demanding fees for each time the vessel has passed through Hell Gate since 1876, when, the Hell Gate pilots claim, the bond expired. This action has caused much commotion, and is evidently destined to make trouble before the matter is settled.

The Philadelphia newspapers call attention to the enormous fees paid the lawyers in the contest of the Whittaker will in that city lately. The total sum paid to the lawyers is $102,500, of which one received $15,000, two $10,500, one $7000, one $5000, and one $2500, besides large allowances for copies of documents and other items of a long "expense account." The experts employed cost $5000 each, and detectives about $1000.

Four drawingrooms are held yearly in London. The Lord Chamberlain gives notice of each in the London Gazette, and the daily papers copy it. Then ensues a struggle for the honor and glory of a presentation on the part of those who, having no special claim to the invitation, covet it above all other things. To be present is to become current coin in society throughout the civilized world.

A sportsman relates the following:—"While out hunting a short time since," said he, "I was bitten by a rattlesnake on the back of the left hand, and having heard that if powder was burned on the bitten part it would be an antidote to the poison, I immediately poured a small quantity on the bitten place, struck a match and set fire to it; the result was that I felt no inconvenience and experienced no pain or trouble whatever from the bite."

THE OLD BOSTON STATE HOUSE.

It appears that the Maverick Bank, in bidding for a lease of the old State House are ready to agree not to alter the external appearance of the building except to restore it as nearly as may be to its original aspect, in character and detail. The main floor, that level with Washington street, would be thrown into a single, large banking room, the fittings, furniture and decorations of which would be carried out in colonial style. The basement, where the telegraph office now is, would be rented to another banking house, and the second floor to another, while certain of the clerks of the Maverick Bank would be given desk room in the roof story. Mr. Potter says the lessee would agree not to put a sign on the building nor allow any to be put there, and in general to consult the taste and public spirit that desire the preservation of the fine old Queen Anne heirloom. The bank desires a long lease, say of thirty years. The offer seems irresistible, whether regarded from the patriotic-sentimental or from the prudential-municipal point of view.—[Boston Transcript.

AFTER THE EGG GATHERERS.

After occupying the Farrallones Islands, which lie in the Pacific Ocean, off the Golden Gate of California, for thirty years or more, a company of egg gatherers has been forcibly driven away by the United States authorities. The islands are the resort of gray gulls and other wild sea fowl, who annually deposit millions of eggs that are sold and eaten by residents all along the coast of California. After so long in undisturbed possession of these profitable places it appears that the occupants consider them as their own private property. The United States Marshal with a posse of Government soldiers have seized upon them, and the question of ownership will have to be settled at Washington. Should the pre-emption law be enforced by the egg company it is very probable that they will regain the islands.

There are things in the new Directory now compiling in New York to stir the dust of Shakespeare in his grave. For instance, Mr. "Hamlet" sells candy in Third avenue—possibly under the motto, "Sweets to the sweet." Mr. "Macbeth" sells oils in Maiden lane—possibly under the motto, "There's husbandry in heaven; their candles are all out." Mr. "Macduff" is a broker in Bleecker street—possibly under the motto, "Dashed be he who cries, 'Hold, enough!'" Mr. "Shylock" is a blacksmith in East Sixteenth street possibly under the motto, "I am never merry when I hear sweet music." And Mr. "Lear" is a printer in East Fourth street, possibly under a motto the force of which authors and proof-readers can alike appreciate—"Striving to better, oft we mar what's well."

Arabella (on her toes in a chair, clutching convulsively at her skirts):—"Oh, Bridget! A mouse! A mouse! Come and catch it, quick." Bridget: "Shure, mum, there's no hurry. If this one gets away, I can catch plenty more for ye, mum."

"ROGER TICHBORNE" AND THE DUKE OF SUTHERLAND.

The Duke of Sutherland denies the statement telegraphed over the country about his having seen the man in California who claims to be the real Roger Tichborne. With his party, returning from the trip across the continent, the Duke passed through Philadelphia on the 21st, and this was one of the subjects of conversation with a reporter for the Philadelphia Times, who was on the train. The Times says: The ducal party had three coaches and a locomotive to themselves. One of the cars was used exclusively for eating, another was the sleeping-car and the third one, which they used to sit in, was as comfortable an arrangement, possibly, as can be found on wheels. Dr. Russell, the famous correspondent of the London Times in war days, who is with the party and who, the telegraph stated, had mailed a statement of the case to England, was quite indignant. "It's no such thing," he said, "and what is more, I believe from what I've heard, the man's a humbug. There is a lawyer in California by the name of General Barnes, and while we were there we met him on a train and he told us about this claimant, but there is nothing in it. The story is utterly absurd."

"No," said the Duke; "we never saw the man and he may be a claimant for all we know, but we don't know anything about it." Dinner coming on, the subject dropped. Croquettes and peas and port presented stronger claims. Evidently the ducal party have been faring well. For a great many valuable attentions the Duke extended his personal thanks to President Roberts, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who was on the train for a little while. They expected to reach New York at 10 o'clock last night, but beyond that they have not arranged their plans. Probably they will take a look at one or two of the largest watering places, but it is not their intention to stay much longer in the country. Lady Greene, who is in the party with Sir Henry Greene, her husband, was lively in her sallies on the naivete of some of the reporters they had met.

"We met one in the West," said she, "and he told us that he did not mind whether he was exact or not, for in America, said he, the papers are meant particularly to amuse the people." Right merrily Lady Greene laughed at what seemed to her the whimsical idea of newspapers being published for amusement.

"I suppose," said Thomas Knowles, a ruddy, jolly member of Parliament, "they brought his grace and the California Tichbone together for the amusement of the public."

"Do you know what one of them did," said Lady Greene, not in the tone of a question, but as if more was coming; "they told him they did not like to let him see the Duke because he was in bed and lying down. 'Oh,' said he, 'it makes no difference to me; I don't mind seeing him lying down.' It was in Chicago that one was, but we met with some other marks of elevated condescension elsewhere."

"Yes," put in Sir Henry; "they abused us beastly at De Tront, I believe they call it."

"Detroit," corrected Lady Greene.

"And wrote interviews with me when I never saw them at all," said the Duke.

"But, after all, we've no reason to complain," added Mr. Knowles, "for we've done nothing but enjoy ourselves."

The Duke speaks enthusiastically of the magnificent farms that he saw in the West. He was surprised at their magnitude and at the advantages of improved machinery and many other agricultural helps which the farmers of this country have so near at hand. He says he has learned many ways in which the railways of this country are ahead of those in Europe. In particular he spoke of the difference in the weight of freight cars. People in England could scarcely believe that one locomotive could draw eighty loaded freight cars and yet he saw it done. Lighter freight cars have become a great necessity in England.

CHEAP OIL PAINTINGS, "POT-BOILERS" AND "BUCKEYES."

There are two kinds of cheap pictures in oil; those produced in the studios by artists of various degrees of ability and those manufactured in the establishments devoted to the business on a large scale, and which turn out duplicates of an oil painting as similar concerns in other branches of industry turn out hats, coats or shoes. Paintings of the first named class are called "pot-boilers," from their being usually thrown off by artists to furnish the means to "keep the pot boiling." These, although showing signs of the haste with which they are painted, are sometimes not without merit. They are mostly sold in the better class of auction houses in New York, and many artists, in the absence of more lucrative employment, find their chief means of support in supplying the demand for this class of work. A clever artist can paint a tolerably attractive canvas in a comparatively short time; and although he will put into it little of the imagination and poetry and careful thought which he would bestow upon a work for the Academy exhibition his technical facility will enable him to make a salable picture of it. The visitor to the auction stores in the lower part of the city will often find "pot-boilers" from the studios of well-known artists. These have been gathered by the picture dealer, who is well acquainted with the sources of supply, and with the worth of ready money to the impecunious artist. Sometimes the pictures are sold on account of the painter, sometimes they have been bought at a low rate by the auctioneer who offers them at his picture sales until he can dispose of them at a profit.

What are technically known as "buckeyes" are works of a different class. They are produced in great numbers at certain establishments in this city by workmen and girls who have been trained to the degree of mechanical skill necessary to make a copy of the picture before them, or at least of that part of it which is given them to duplicate. In some of the workshops the walls are covered with canvases upon which the copyists are busily at work. One paints the sky and the distant effects, another follows with the foreground, another paints the figures and still another finishes the picture. The work is done with great rapidity, and the result, as may be expected is not pleasing to an artistic eye. Yet the facility attained by constant practice is such that the rude copies of landscapes thus produced bear a sufficient resemblance to the original to give them a market value as pictures.

The first step in the production of the dazzling landscape in a gilt frame which is to be the subject of the encomiums of the auctioneer or picture-peddler is the preparation of the canvas. This is done by passing cotton cloth through a machine by which it is coated on both sides with a mixture of glue and whiting, and gives something of the firmness and appearance of canvas. After being thoroughly dried the cloth is ready for the stretcher or inner frame. The stretchers are produced by an ingenious machine which shapes joints and fastens them with great rapidity, and by a third machine, tended by an Irish youth of artistic proclivities, the cloth is quickly fastened upon the stretcher, and made ready for the coming landscape. The canvas then passes to the "studio." Here a line of girls stand around long tables, their dresses splashed with paint and their appearance anything but that of the ideal artist in a well appointed studio. On the walls near by hang what seem to be stencils of various patterns, which the girls have been trained to use with great facility. The process employed is an adaptation of what is known as Theorem painting, and also as Poonah or Oriental painting. By the use of a species of stencils the outlines and principal figures in the landscape are one after another rapidly made, and the picture then passes into the hands of a more advanced painter for completion. A few skilful touches from her hand supply the deficiencies which the use of the mechanical contrivance has left, and after receiving a liberal coating of varnish, and remaining a short time in the drying room, the picture is ready for market. The frames are made by machinery in the story below the "studio;" they have considerable breadth but little thickness; yet although so unsubstantial they are quite ornamental in design, and when covered with a metallic preparation known as "Dutch metal" or "Dutch gilt," which resembles gold leaf but has not a particle of gold in it, they are brilliant and showy enough to satisfy the most exacting purchaser. Thus it will be seen that in these "genuine oil paintings" the oil which is used is the only thing that is genuine.—[N. Y. Post.

FIGHTING WITH FIRE CRACKERS.

The German bark Occident left this port on the 28th ult. At 7.30 P. M., two miles south of the Nine Pins, with a fair breeze, saw two Chinese junks on the same course as the ship. At 8.30 one of the junks came quite near the ship, to starboard, and interfered so much with the course that the ship was steering that she was compelled to change her course. When requested to get clear from the ship, the junk people said they could not in consequence of the wind. Suddenly the junks steered direct to starboard, and then fire crackers were thrown on board the ship from the masthead and other parts of the junk. A Chinese sailor who was steering was wounded by a bullet in the right shoulder, but not seriously, merely a contusion. The captain was attacked by the pirates, who had boarded the vessel to the number of between twenty and thirty. One of the pirates made lunge at him with a spear, and when he tried to parry the blow he was struck by and received a cut on the head from another spear. He was then driven to the fore part of the ship and a guard placed over him; he was warned to keep quiet, and threatened with serious consequences in the event of his offering any resistance. The mate, a European, was next got hold of, and he was placed beside the captain and similarly threatened and warned. The piratical band then began to search the ship. They took from the captain's cabin a silver watch and gold chain, a telescope and some money. They also took everything that was valuable from the cabins of the mate and boatswain. The latter, also a European, was asleep in his cabin when attacked by the pirates, which woke him up. Escaping by the skylight on the deck he was at once surrounded and roughly handled, then taken by force to where the captain and mate were and warned and threatened as they had been. From the Chinese crew on board the robbers took everything of value. From the supercargo they took $82 in money and all his clothes. From the ship they took two lanterns and four rolls of canvas. They finally conducted the captain back to his cabin and told him to show them where the money on board was. He assured them they had already taken all. They then warned him again that he had better keep quiet and went off. On the captain coming on deck shortly afterward they were making off. The junks appeared to be of 1,000 piculs each.—Hong Kong Mail.

ATTAR OF ROSES.—In northern India whence we obtain the little attar of roses which we get, it is estimated that it takes about 20,000 blooms to yield one rupee-weight of oil—about 176 grains weight—considerably less than half an ounce, yet this small quantity is sold on the spot for $50. Of course, the yield will vary with the circumstances. At Ghazepore, the roses are planted in rows in fields, and the roses are gathered before midday and distilled in pot stills, with twice their weight of water. The water which comes over is placed in open vessels, covered with a damp, light cloth to keep out flies and dust, and set to cool, just as we set milk to throw up cream. In the morning a thin film of oil will have risen to the surface, which is carefully swept off with a feather and transferred to a vial. And this process is repeated daily during the blooming season. Women and children do this work, or, rather, enjoy the profitable amusement.—[Sir William Hooker of Kew Gardens.

HOSTETTER'S

BITTERS

The Traveler who wisely Provides
Against the contingency of illness by taking with him Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, has occasion to congratulate himself on his foresight, when he sees others who have neglected to do so suffering from some one of the maladies for which it is a remedy and preventive. Among these are fever and ague, biliousness, constipation and rheumatism, diseases often attendant upon a change of climate or unwonted diet.
